

Arrows Trading Indicator Class

In mid-August, I warned that the market was approaching an important top. In my 14 August WSR, I said the top would occur somewhere between 26 August to 10 September. As things turned out, it was only two days later, on 16 August, that the Dow reached its all-time high of 35,631. Since that time, the Dow fell to a low of 33,613 on 20 September and then bounced to 35.061 forming the right shoulder of a very important pattern. Because the pattern projects significant downside risk, I want to have another Update Class so my students will understand what this means to their portfolios and how they can protect themselves.

In my last Update Class on 29 July, I showed students a few new things I was working on at the time. I charged $25 for the Class, which I thought was fair for the work I put in. After the class, I received several great emails thanking me for sharing my work, but I also received one email asking if I could do something to make their trading decisions even simpler. The student asked if I could develop a simple, 'no brainer' entry system with exit criteria that would capture most, if not all the gain. To be honest, I did not know if this was possible, but I agreed to work on it. I accepted his challenge. After all, what else does a retired guy, who loves to trade the market and doesn't play golf, have to do.

Anyhow, after three months of work, I believe I have developed what my student asked for. I've developed an EXTREMELY simple trading screen, complete with arrows that show well defined entry and exit points. The indicators also use colors to tell you when a potential new trend is starting, when a trend is underway, and when to exit. They also provide exact signals that tell you when to add to existing positions. In other words, it takes trading to an entirely new level.

I have been using my new screen with the arrows and colors daily to make money. I believe that if you can't trade successfully with the new arrows and colored indicators, you shouldn't be trading.

I'm so convinced about the success of my new system that IF you don't make money, I'll give you your money back*.

* Only Valid for origin $99 class.

 Due to results of using the arrow indicators, the price has risen to $399 and may change without notice at anytime going forward.